SWAP Technologies partners WM on skill development

By Stanley Opara
Published: Tuesday, 14 Oct 2008

SWAP Technologies and Telecomms Plc has partnered with Workforce Management on its Employability Skills Development Programme Scholarship Scheme.

In a statement on Friday, the company said with its aim of becoming one of Nigeria's largest conglomerates by 2011, and interests in telecoms, information technology, energy, logistics and engineering; it was keen to contribute its quota towards developing the nation.

Having commenced operations in 2001, the company stressed that it had consistently differentiated itself as a first class organisation, as evidenced by its track record and corporate performance.

According to the Chief Executive Officer, Swap Technologies, Mr. Tunde Titilayo, the company reaches its stakeholders through multiple communication strategies including direct engagement and briefings. He said the company would continue to give maximum returns to its stakeholders and would also tread the path of exemplary corporate governance.

He said, "As part of its contribution towards human development via capacity building, and in fulfillment of its corporate social responsibility, the management of SWAP Technologies and Telecomms Plc partnered with the Workforce Management on its Employability Skills Development Programme Scholarship Scheme."

The thrust of the scheme, he said, was to ensure that graduates of tertiary institutions were better equipped with skills that would enhance their individual status, preparatory to employment.
